The partnership with JCV has been in place since 2007 and, each year, based on the number of new “Minna no Kenpo” medical insurance contracts received by AIG General, and as a way of expressing our gratitude to our customers, a donation is made through JCV that will deliver vaccines to children in need. The number of vaccines donated this year corresponds to the total number of Minna no Kenpo contracts received during 2018. Including this year’s 45,000, AIG General has, to date, donated the equivalent of 780,000 vaccines to children across the world.

Haruko Watanabe, Corporate Officer, AIG General, accepted a letter of appreciation on November 28, and commented, “Thanks to the backing, support and understanding of our customers, we are extremely proud to be contributing to this great initiative through medical insurance that we offer at AIG General. Under our ACTIVE CARE strategy, which aims to identify and reduce risk, we will continue to pursue initiatives aimed at supporting future generations and reducing risks in children’s lives.”

<About registered NPO Japan Committee, Vaccines for the World's Children (JCV)>

JCV is a non-governmental international aid organization focused on providing developing countries with support for vaccines and vaccine supplies, in addition to carrying out public education activities regarding the prevention of infectious diseases. In many developing countries, children are losing their lives to infectious diseases because they are unable to receive vaccinations.
